ASPnet

ASPnet is based on the principle of facilitating intercultural and international understanding in students and young people. When you become a UNESCO Associated School, you undertake to organize activities promoting these ideals in your school. The U.S. National Commission for UNESCO serves as an ASPnet coordinator for U.S. schools and attempts to facilitate communication and maintain a list of U.S.-based ASPnet schools. However, neither the U.S. Department of State nor the U.S. National Commission have a financial or legal relationship with these schools. Therefore, any programs implemented pursuant to ASPnet are the sole responsibility of the participating schools. The U.S. Department of State and U.S. National Commission bear no legal, financial, civil, or criminal liability for any actions that the schools might take under the program.
